“Students are the whole point.” Those are the words of long-time Tarleton supporter Dominique Inge, whom you will meet in this report. From our founding, student access and opportunity have been at the center of Tarleton’s mission.

Tarleton is working to become the premier student-focused university in Texas and beyond. Students tell me every day how much they love their Tarleton experience. Prospective students are applying in ever-growing numbers, because to be part of the Tarleton family is a special experience.

Student scholarships ensure access to a Tarleton education for a strong, diverse student body. Students prepare for our global society in the curriculum and in campus activities. Scholar-athletes bring world-class talents and worldwide backgrounds to the campus and galvanize our pride.

Students create friendships and memories while participating in Tarleton’s rich traditions.

Across the Tarleton faculty, enthusiasm for teaching and research inspires students and advances knowledge. Working with faculty on research projects is the kind of real-world experience that distinguishes our graduates. Donor support for faculty endeavors leads to important discoveries and grows the reputation of our graduates and our university.

Students are the whole point. We are grateful to those named in this report whose generosity enables Tarleton students to have a transformative experience. Thank you for investing in the future of our University and in the promise of our graduates.

Why should you give?

At no point in the history of Tarleton State University has there been greater need for your support. As the university grows rapidly we are able to serve more students and expand the Tarleton family. Your support makes a difference because it allows Tarleton’s service to be exemplary, our academic programs to be innovative, constituent engagement to be distinctive and student experiences to be transformative.

Giving to Tarleton may be done in many ways, and for many reasons. Let us help you with the options. You may want to give an unrestricted gift to help Tarleton meet its greatest needs, or support a program or college that is close to your heart, or even endow a student scholarship that will aid students for generations into the future!

Wherever you direct your gift, you will help Tarleton make an impact on students, on the community and on the world. Gifts also enable you to receive the distinction of joining the university’s elite societies and giving circles—John Tarleton Society, Scholarship Society, President’s Circle, 1899 Circle, Student Life Circle, Dean’s Circle, Tarleton Circle, Texan Club, T-Club, Friends of the Dick Smith Library, Ultra Club, Tarleton Circle and Corporate Member. Description of these groups and their levels follow in this report.

Opportunities to give

Annual Giving

Annual support from individuals, foundations and corporations provides the margin of excellence that distinguishes great universities from good ones. These gifts help Tarleton bridge the gap between state support and its annual operating budget; they make the difference between subsistence and excellence.

Greater Tarleton Annual Fund

The Greater Tarleton Annual Fund (GTAF), a yearly campaign to raise private funds for academic programs, has a direct, immediate impact on Tarleton students and programs by providing support beyond basic public funding. Each year, thousands of alumni and friends give to Tarleton through the GTAF to support academic excellence.

Scholarships

With more than 80 percent of Tarleton students receiving some form of financial aid, scholarship funds play a critically important role in changing lives through education. Without these funds, a college education might not become reality for many Tarleton students. Scholarships help students achieve their career and lifetime aspirations.

Endowed Gifts

Endowments are the financial foundation of a university. Rather than being spent to meet an immediate need, endowed funds are invested for the future. Earnings on these investments provide a stable, ongoing source of funds for scholarships, professorships and areas of special need. Each year, the earnings achieve the endowment’s intended purpose, while allowing growth for the future.

Gifts in Memory

Gifts to commemorate a family member, classmate, faculty member or friend can create a lasting legacy in their honor. Gifts in Memory may be designated toward any existing fund—perhaps one to which the decedent directed gifts during his or her lifetime—or be applied to support any Tarleton program or initiative important to the donor, or left to the discretion of the university.

Corporate Matching Gifts

Corporate matching gifts are a great way for Tarleton alumni, parents and friends to maximize personal contributions to the university and increase the impact of their gifts. By taking advantage of a company’s gift benefit, you may be able to double or even triple the amount of your contribution for the benefit of Tarleton and its students.

For information about making a gift, please contact the Office of Development at (254) 968-9857 or visit www.tarleton.edu/giving. We would be happy to assist you in making your gift have the greatest possible impact on Tarleton and its students.
Ways to Give

The most common ways you can make a tax-deductible contribution to Tarleton include contributions through cash, checks or credit cards, which may also qualify for a matching gift from your employer.

Gifts of stock, real estate and tangible personal property, as well as bequests and other planned gifts, provide tax benefits, or even a fixed stream of income for you and Tarleton.

Gifts of Cash
Outright gifts may be made via cash, check, credit card or other means. Make your check payable to Tarleton State University.

Online Giving
The simplest and easiest gift you can make may be by secure credit/debit card transaction at www.tarleton.edu/giving.

Planned Gifts
Change students’ lives today and leave the legacy you’ve always wanted by including Tarleton in your estate plans.
LIFETIME GIVING
Twenty years ago, Dominique and Charles Inge learned about Tarleton when the university asked for their support of the Langdon Cultural and Educational Center in Granbury.

The Inges agreed, creating a bond with Tarleton that continues today. Through The Inge Foundation, they donate to educational and cultural programs including KTRL public radio, Langdon Review of the Arts, and the President’s Circle.

“Students are the whole point,” Dominique said. “The programs we support provide them experience and showcase their works. We’re always excited to see students learning and interacting with professors.”

The Inges envision a bright future with Tarleton as it moves forward and broadens its educational reach under the leadership of President Dominic Dottavio.

“Supporting universities are one focus for improving society,” Charles said. “Dr. Dottavio has taken Tarleton to the next level. He has a genuine commitment to students that really comes through.”
The John Tarleton Society honors those individuals, businesses and foundations who have made significant lifetime contributions to the advancement of the mission of the university. This elite group of benefactors is committed to quality educational opportunities and the tradition of excellence at Tarleton.

Senior criminal justice major Troy Collum II, 43, discovered Tarleton while on a campus tour with his high-school-aged son, Ian. Today, he and Ian are off-campus roommates attending Tarleton together.

When he enrolled at Tarleton, Troy had 13 years experience in law-enforcement in Bandera County. Now he’s a reserve officer and full-time honors student who has earned several merit-based scholarships.

“With two of us attending college at the same time, scholarships have really helped,” Troy said. “And it feels good to be recognized for your accomplishments—that somebody out there is saying ‘good job.’”

After graduation in May, Troy plans to attend law school and become a prosecutor. In the meantime, he recently witnessed real-life prosecution as a student intern in the Erath County District Attorney’s office, where lawyers prepared the Chris Kyle murder case.
The Scholarship Society honors those individuals, businesses and foundations who have made significant contributions to scholarships benefiting Tarleton State University students. This prominent group of benefactors is committed to quality educational opportunities and the tradition of educational excellence at Tarleton.

With 49 years teaching at Tarleton between them, Drs. Pam and Mark Littleton consider the university community their home.

"Donations are our way of giving back a little," said Mark, professor of educational leadership. "We just happen to choose Tarleton and that speaks to our philosophy of ‘let’s give at home.’"

The Littletons give to a variety of programs, including athletics, rodeo, study abroad, and fine arts, including KTRL, Tarleton’s public radio. They also support special projects like the President’s Circle and the Dean of the College of Education’s Crystal Apple Society. Each year they give to Tarleton’s annual campaign, earmarking their donation toward helping mathematics students.

“Scholarships let students know that what they’re doing is appreciated,” said Pam, professor emeritus of mathematics. “Then hopefully they stay and finish their degrees and become successful citizens.”

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Euphemia Edem is the first athlete in Tarleton history to qualify for NCAA championships in two events. She’s currently ranked No. 2 in the nation in triple jump and No. 5 in long jump, and her dream is to compete in the 2016 Summer Olympics.

A Tarleton track scholarship allows Euphemia to study toward a master’s degree in kinesiology, which she plans to receive in December.

“Coming from Nigeria, it means a great deal to me,” Euphemia said about her scholarship. “It really helps. I hope Tarleton will consider doing more for international students.”

Euphemia plans to continue her studies, receive a doctorate, help elite track athletes and work as an athletic director after trying to compete in the Olympics.

“I want to give a helping hand to my parents and family at home,” Euphemia said. “My future’s not just about me; it’s for them, too.”

Geri Kline comes from a family of Texas ranchers and Iowa farmers and she’s determined to carry on her family’s legacy of producing food for mankind. Geri, who is studying for her master’s degree in Agricultural and Consumer Resources, wants to help other students thrive in farming careers, too.

To achieve that goal, Geri is assisting fellow graduate Richard Singleton and the Agribusiness Club in their efforts to endow and perpetuate a scholarship for Agricultural Economics students.

“I want to give back to Tarleton,” she said. “And help keep students studying agriculture so we can guarantee increased food production for the world’s future.”

Geri also hopes to nurture her goal of supporting farmers and ranchers during her career. Upon completion of graduate school, she plans to serve as a Texas AgriLife Extension Agent.

“Scholarships have done amazing things for my education here at Tarleton. I am going to be able to graduate with very minimal loans due to the generous support of the scholarships. I recently received a scholarship for my study abroad program to Ireland, which was an amazing experience. Scholarships will help me earn my degree to share my love of music with kids.”
